Invitation to collaborate with ECCCO

Dear Sir/Madam,

Thank you for your interest in ECCO. This brochure outlines our rapidly growing organisation, which aims to optimise care for patients suffering from Inflammatory Bowel Diseases (IBD). We hope that our activities, initiatives and services appeal to you in a way in that you will consider joining forces with us and becoming or continuing to be one of our Corporate Partners.

In the past decade, ECCO has become the leading European organisation for IBD and is now the largest forum for IBD specialists in the world. All our 36 Member Countries are represented in the core bodies that make up ECCO: the Council of National Representatives and the eleven operational ECCO Committees. In addition, ECCO is linked with most of the National IBD Societies and study groups within Europe, extending collaboration beyond Europe into Asia, Asia-Pacific, South Africa, North America, Latin America and the Middle East.

Our central point of interest is the well-being of the patient with IBD. As a result, we organise high quality educational programmes for those who care for them: the doctors (gastroenterologists, paediatricians, surgeons), nurses, research fellows and students. This is done in a direct way during our Annual Congress or Regional ECCO Workshops, indirectly through our extended e-CCO Learning platform and through the development of internationally recognised ECCO Guidelines. In addition, we seek to innovate IBD therapeutics by finding answers through Scientific Workshops and by promoting research through ECCO Fellowships, Grants and Travel Awards. There will be new ECCO Guidelines, new work on fibrogenesis and the microbiota, new concepts in care and the ECCO Global Forum for interaction across the world of IBD.

With all its activities, ECCO aspires to represent the highest possible level of quality, together with complete impartiality. ECCO realises that its ambitious plans and vision require the valuable support of the biomedical industry. We therefore strive to develop a continuing and fruitful relationship as equal partners.

To this end, ECCO has put together this informative brochure for our current and potential Corporate Members. The brochure provides important details on the business relationship between ECCO and Industry. It explains the advantages of becoming a Corporate Partner and describes potential sponsorship activities for future cooperation.

If you are interested in getting involved with ECCO, please contact us personally or via the ECCO Office ecco@ecco-ibd.eu to initiate further discussion.

We thank you for your valued and continuing support!
Yours sincerely,

European
Crohn's and Colitis
Organisation

Who we are

The European Crohn's and Colitis Organisation (ECCO), founded in 2001 to improve the care of patients with Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD) in Europe, is now the largest forum for specialists in IBD in the world. It is a non-profit association, which successfully expanded from an organisation comprising 14 Country Members to an association assembling 36 member states of the Council of Europe and facilitating collaborations beyond Europe's borders. In 2009, we introduced individual membership allowing anyone around the globe interested in IBD to both benefit from our initiatives and to join us in our mission.

ECCO Structure as of April 2018 (Source: ECCO Office)

Our mission

ECCO's mission is to improve the care of patients with IBD in all its aspects through international guidelines for practice, education, research and collaboration in the area of IBD.

Our objectives

- We influence IBD management through the development, publication, dissemination and teaching of IBD guidelines and other educational materials.
- We facilitate and promote the education of health care professionals in the field of IBD (including physicians, surgeons, radiologists, pathologists, endoscopists, nurse specialists and allied professions).
- We organise (inter)national scientific and educational exchange programmes in the field of IBD. We enhance the quality of research in the field of IBD, both in basic science (i.e. organising pathogenesis workshops) and clinical science (i.e. development of IBD study protocols).
- We promote and support national and international IBD research efforts.
- We take a political voice in Europe and collaborate with organisations sharing an interest in IBD including medical societies, patient organisations and industries.
- We participate in the activities of the United European Gastroenterology (UEG) and in the organisation of the annual United European Gastroenterology Week (UEG Week).

Annual Congress of ECCO

Every February/March, we organise the ECCO Congress representing a key date on the international IBD calendar. We have organised fourteen Congresses so far, attracting a very large number of attendees with expertise in Inflammatory Bowel Diseases from 98 countries. The last Congress, organised in Copenhagen, March 2019, attracted a record number of 8,034 participants (incl. exhibitors).

For the forthcoming ECCO Congress 2020 in Vienna, we estimate the arrival of 8,000 congress participants. ECCO provides a balanced scientific programme including a range of symposia, the best European gastroenterologists and IBD experts, as well as excellent training opportunities.

The industry exhibition is a key event for Corporate Members and industry partners, offering the opportunity to network face-to-face with purchasing decisionmakers in the field of IBD.

The continuous increase in congress participation is evidence of the dynamic spirit of ECCO. Our membership has grown not only with gastroenterologists, but with other professions such as paediatric specialists, surgeons, radiologists, pathologists and scientists interested in IBD.

Educational courses (organised at the ECCO Congress 2020)

The Advanced ECCO: EduCational Course for Industry is a 4-hour, highly interactive course between Key Opinion Leaders and Industry. It is built around 4 timely questions addressing the most relevant topics in clinical trials in IBD and discussed by a panel of academic, regulatory and industry representatives.

The D-ECCO Workshop provides the opportunity to reach and educate dietitians, IBD nurses and physicians from across Europe. The course has been conceptualised by the Dietitians of ECCO (D-ECCO).

The H-ECCO IBD Masterclass is organised by the Histopathologists of ECCO (H-ECCO). This course is divided into two sessions that cover different topics under the broad heading of IBD pathology. The goal of the H-ECCO IBD Masterclass is the engagement and the achievement of higher standards of histopathological reporting of IBD.

The annual IBD Intensive Advanced Course is a 1.5 day course which takes place prior to the Scientific Programme of the ECCO Congress. It was initiated in 2003, with the general aim to provide advanced fellows and junior faculty in gastroenterology with a multidisciplinary broad base of knowledge in Inflammatory Bowel Disease. Participation is upon invitation only; students are nominated by the ECCO National Representatives.

The N-ECCO School gives nurses who might still be in training and have an interest in IBD the possibility to attend an IBD focused course. Since 2016, dietitians also are invited to join this course. Participation is based upon invitation as nurses are nominated by the N-ECCO National Representatives.

The aim of the N-ECCO Network Meeting is to congregate nurses with an interest in IBD from around the world to exchange experiences and views and to establish an effective network for IBD nurses.

The ECCO-AOCC Forum (biennial, will be held again in 2021) is a cooperation between the European Crohn's and Colitis Organisation and the Asian Organization for Crohn's & Colitis. The forum aims to foster networking and the exchange of knowledge and resources worldwide.

The P-ECCO Educational Course, launched by the Paediatric Committee (P-ECCO) and in 2019 in collaboration with N-ECCO, brings paediatric treatments closer to adult physicians as well as IBD nurses and offers continuous medical education with the ultimate aim of providing a smooth transition from paediatric to adult care.

The S-ECCO IBD Masterclass is organised by the Surgeons of ECCO (S-ECCO). The aim of this Masterclass is to foster the results of a multidisciplinary approach and in 2020 it offers hot debates, trial updates and free papers.

At the 15th Congress of ECCO, Y-ECCO will organise its sixth Y-ECCO Basic Science Workshop. This workshop offers basic science a more visible platform within ECCO at the ECCO Congress. Invited young basic scientists are given the opportunity to present and discuss their own research with peers and senior opinion leaders.

The ECCO Ultrasound and Basic Imaging Workshops are organised by the Education Committee (EduCom). These workshops are devoted to the features and advancements of diagnostic and therapeutic endoscopy as well as bowel ultrasonography and MRI. Real cases place the use of these elements within the clinical context.

The SciCom Workshops are organised by the Scientific Committee (SciCom) and focus on different topics each year with the primary goal of harmonising IBD practices within ECCO Country Members and providing continuous medical education. In 2020 the topic is "Similarities and differences in the pathogenesis of Immune Mediated Inflammatory Disorders" with a target audience of basic scientists and interested clinicians.

The School for Clinical Trialists is organised by the Clinical Research Committee (ClinCom) with the aim of improving education on clinical trials throughout Europe. With this activity, ECCO intends to offer delegates who have an interest in clinical trials the possibility to learn about clinical trial terminology and processes and how to optimise recruitment to clinical trials in IBD.

Please refer to www.ecco-ibd.eu to find further information.

ECCO Educational Workshops

The primary goal of this educational activity is the implementation of the ECCO Guidelines on Crohn's Disease and Ulcerative Colitis. The programme of these workshops is created around clinical cases, with the intention of being as educational and proactive as possible, to allow participants to take active part in the discussions.

Every year, four to five ECCO Educational Workshops are organised within Europe and one to two are held outside of Europe.

e-CCO Learning

To foster learning and align practices with the ECCO Guidelines, we have been developing an e-Learning site comprising a searchable e-Library that contains multimedia reference material in conjunction with interactive case-based e-Courses. This comprehensive platform offers our members easy access to high-level, up-to-date educational material.

ECCO Guidelines & ECCO e-Guide

In 2006, we published the first ECCO Guidelines covering the diagnosis and current management of Crohn's Disease. Since then more guidelines have been developed to become standard references for IBD management in Europe and around the world. The ECCO Guidelines are updated on a regular basis and are available in JCC.

The ECCO e-Guide is an expanding collection of algorithms based on the published ECCO Guidelines and is managed by the Guidelines Committee (GuiCom). The content is based on the most recent published ECCO Guidelines and has been ratified by ECCO.

As of autumn 2017, the ECCO Consensus Guidelines projects address the following topics: Paediatric UC, Imaging, Histopathology, Endoscopy, Nursing, Opportunistic Infections, Paediatric CD, Surgery in UC, Reproduction & Pregnancy, Anaemia, Malignancies, Extra-Intestinal Manifestations, Crohn's Disease, Ulcerative Colitis, Surgery in CD, Diagnostic Techniques and Monitoring in UC and CD, CD Treatment (incl. surgery), UC for Paediatrics (incl. surgery).

ECCO Scientific Workshops

Our Scientific Workshops aim at unravelling unanswered questions in the field of IBD and producing authoritative reviews, thus contributing to the body of knowledge. Organised annually by the Scientific Committee, these workshops address a single question with working groups who perform a systematic review which is published in due course. This is done with the purpose of setting goals for research to answer the question. The Scientific Workshops use patient material to study a given question from different perspectives in working groups of 5-8 members.

ECCO Fellowships, Grants, Travel Awards

ECCO has established Fellowships, Grants and Travel Awards to encourage young physicians in careers and to promote innovative scientific research in IBD in Europe.

Pioneer Award

ECCO has established the Pioneer Award to promote visionary, innovative, and inter-disciplinary collaborative research projects in the field of IBD.

Fellowships are created for individuals younger than 40 years who submit an original research project which they wish to undertake abroad in a European hosting laboratory and/or department. This institute has accepted to host and guide the fellow for the duration of the fellowship (one year) and is responsible together with the fellow for the successful completion of the project. Fellowships are awarded a total amount of EUR 60,000 each.

Grants are created to support good and innovative scientific, translational or clinical research in Europe. The guidelines of ECCO Grants are very similar to those of the Fellowships, with the exception that the research is typically undertaken in the institution of the applicant. ECCO Grants are in the amount of EUR 50,000 each and will also be awarded at the annual ECCO Congress. Grants give the opportunity to the sponsoring company to select the focus of the research.

Travel Awards have been established in 2007 as an opportunity for young investigators to visit different IBD centres in Europe, to learn scientific techniques or be a clinical observer. Travel Awards are awarded with a total amount of EUR 1,500 each.

The N-ECCO Travel Award has been introduced for one IBD nurse member of ECCO who is sponsored to visit another European centre to observe nursing care. Observational learning is essential when nurses develop within a role and this is a superb opportunity to gain financial support to do so.

Publications

JCC – Journal of Crohn's and Colitis is our journal concerned with clinical and basic research in the field of IBD, which has received an Impact Factor of 6.637 in 2017. JCC is published 12 times/year (online issues) and is available in English.

ECCO News is our quarterly published society magazine, keeping IBD experts informed on recent ECCO activities and the latest society news.

Basic & Advanced ECCO: EduCational COurses for Industry

The Basic ECCO: EduCational COurse for Industry is a practical introduction to IBD for colleagues in industry that covers a broad range of topics. Participants may be non-medical or medically qualified without experience in IBD.

The Advanced ECCO: EduCational COurse for Industry is a 4-hour, highly interactive session between Key Opinion Leaders and Industry is built around 4 timely questions addressing the most relevant topics in clinical trials in IBD.

e-Learning

To help foster learning and align practices with the ECCO Guidelines, we have been developing an e-Learning site comprising a searchable e-Library containing multimedia reference material in conjunction with interactive case based e-Courses. This new learning platform offers a great way for all our members to easily access a great deal of high-level, up to date educational material.

Exchange and Dialogue with ECCO Officers

Corporate Members of ECCO enjoy the opportunity to spend some time with ECCO Officers during exchange and dialogue opportunities. Corporate Members are invited to brainstorm and discuss a range of topics for further interaction and collaboration. The opportunities for this exchange and dialogue will take place during the ECCO Congress.

How to join us

Individual Membership

ECCO is a young and active association with a very high potential for membership growth. As of May 2019, we have over 4,000 registered individual members, with numbers continuously increasing each year.
